

LEISURE ACTIVITIES

by Sue Burgess

Summer is here. L'été est arrivé. Time for a day or two on the coast sur la côte / à la mer.

It's la Rentrée Back to School time, and time to sign on for clubs and activities des clubs et activités de loisirs.

The three most popular sports in France are cycling le vélo, swimming la natation and walking la marche. These activities are appreciated by all generations because they are easy to adapt to different needs and possibilities. You don't need to be a member of a cycling club posséder une licence de la Fédération Française de Cyclisme to go out for a bike ride une sortie en vélo!

Very popular on TV, team sports les sports collectifs like football le football, rugby le rugby, basketball le basket and even handball le handball are mainly practised by youngsters. These team sports come after skiing le ski or fishing la pêche if you consider the number of people who practise them. According to l'INSEE (the National Institute of Economic Statistics), 15% of the population practise skiing and 10% play football.

As far as outings les sorties and cultural visits les visites culturelles are concerned, the French favour the cinema le cinéma, visiting historical monuments la visite de monuments historiques and exhibitions les expositions. Approximately 25% of the population go to the museum le musée at least once a year. Then there are concerts les concerts, outings to the theatre les sorties au théâtre and shows les spectacles. The circus Le cirque which has changed a lot over the last thirty years is not as popular as it was.

The TV is still top of everyone's list for leisure activities. The computer l'ordinateur comes second and the book le livre is in third place. The smartphone le smartphone is the main companion for the under 35 year olds.

Listening to the radio Écouter la radio is the first leisure activity for one French person in 4. Youngsters les jeunes prefer listening to music écouter la musique whereas older people prefer a newspaper un journal or a book.

Internet l'internet is the invention which has had the most influence on daily leisure activities. The smartphone le smartphone or the tablet la tablette follow on closely. Digital photography la photographie numérique completes the table.
